

During 2005, the reported chlamydia infection rates among those who reported race as White was 131.5 cases per 100,000 population (2,947 cases), African-American or Black was 723.4 cases per 100,000 population (163 cases), among those whose ethnicity was Hispanic was 464.3 per 100,000 population (1,175 cases), American Indian/Alaskan Native had 431.8 cases per 100,000 population (139 cases) and Asian/Pacific Islander was 285.6 cases per 100,000 population (177 cases).

During 2005, the reported gonorrhea infection rates among those who reported race as White was (455 cases; 20.3 cases per 100,000 population) and those who reported race as Asian/Pacific Islander was (38.3 cases per 100,000 population; 19 cases). The rate of gonorrhea among those reporting ethnicity as Hispanic was 68.4 cases per 100,000 population, (173 cases), African-Americans 284.0 cases per 100,000 population, (64 cases) and American Indian/Alaskan Native was 49.7 cases per 100,000 population (16 cases). Utah's reported gonorrhea cases increased 221% from 2001 to 2005, the largest increase in the country!